

LAYC Training Course Storytelling

Introduction

We all have 'stories' to tell. Scotland has a long tradition of oral storytelling, but how can you best engage children in both telling and listening to stories.

The course is aimed at sessional and volunteer children's workers who are looking to use storytelling as a means to improve children's self confidence and creative abilities.

Content

The course will be practice based and provide opportunities to use storytelling materials and techniques to create and adopt stories for using with children.

The course is very practical with group activities, discussion and tutor input.

Outcomes

By the end of the course participants will:

- Be aware of the purposes storytelling can be used for and materials available to support this
- Be able to create and deliver a storytelling session for children
- Have had experience of participating in storytelling activities
